Our Working Board

EACH BOARD MEMBER ASSIGNED SPECIFIC DUTIES.

HIGHLIGHTS OF FEBRUARY 15th BOARD MEETING

At the Town Hall Meeting which preceded the Regular Board Meeting, Irving Schecter, Board Chairman of Enhancement Committee, explained why the lobbies were not completed as promised by the decorator. Irving Schecter made it quite clear that no decorator would sign a contract which included a penalty clause. Most of the furniture, carpets, etc. have been completed, but they are being temporarily stored at the Decorator's warehouse awaiting the arrival of proper sconces and the necessary electrical work. Shortly after the sconces are installed, the completion of the lobbies will be quickly accomplished.

The Regular Meeting of the Board of Directors started with the Manager's report. Mr. Cancell stated that several in-house projects have been or are near completion. All benches at pool deck rebuilt. Installing a new heat pump to prevent loss of heat due to cold spells. Air conditioner cooling tower rebuilt and working well. Fire alarm system near completion. Awaiting keys to 47 apartments for inspection of speakers.

Unanimously agreed that certified letters (return receipt requested) be sent to all unit owners who have not complied with regulations to keep duplicate keys in the condo office, in the event of emergency.

Motion to purchase two additional glass Bulletin Boards in both towers for the purpose to restrict posting of signs.

Approximately 70 Canadian unit owners requested two Canadian TV channels, one in French and the other in English. Technicalities and expense were discussed...tabled.

BOARD MEMBERS RESPONSIBILITIES

Murray Goldsmith appointed every member on the Board, with their approval, to perform specific duties. The 1990 Board of Directors is determined to be a "working" Board, not consisting of "honorary" members. Each Board Member was delegated to perform specific duties, utilizing their talent obtained from years of experience in their chosen professions.

The following are the names of each Board Member and their responsibility:

- Building Maintenance & Repairs. Irving Schecter
- Landscaping. George McClancy
- Outdoor Sports Facilities, including:
 - Pool Area and Restaurant. Al Finkelstein
 - Indoor Athletic Facilities. Al Finkelstein
 - Security and Parking. George McClancy and Irving Schecter

- House - All Indoor Public Areas Including Card Rooms, Library, Reception Areas, Mail Rooms and Display Boards:
 - Betsy Weiner, Leora Saurel and Doris Naron
- Screening. Al Finkelstein
- Community Relations. Sam Lena
(Liason with Summit Residents and Summit Contained Organizations)

- Personnel Mike Arcidiacono and Leora Saurel
- Administration, Finance, Legal and Internal Operations:

A LETTER FROM FRED J. RUBENS

MEDICAL PERSONNEL POOL
 2440 N. University Drive
 Pembroke Pines, Florida
 Gentlemen:

February 8, 1989

It is rare these days, if not impossible, to find people who will go out of their way to provide a service without asking something in return. For that reason, I am writing you to express my appreciation and extend the thanks of so many residents of the Summit Towers.

For over seven years, Medical Personnel Pool has furnished the Summit with a team of nurses to screen for high blood pressure. On the first Monday of every month, you can bank on the appearance of highly qualified, warm caring ladies who are a delight to watch as they handle each individual in a personal and professional manner. Your two nurses, Gisella and Hope deserve our warmest praise.

Most recently, it was my pleasure to work with Susan Sherwood of your staff to implement a "Health Day at the Summit". There never was a question of "What's in it for us"? Instead, your ladies came through with typical MPP professionalism to the benefit of over 80 of our residents. Please thank them all for a job well done.

I hope this letter will be re-printed in our condo newsletter, The Summit Observer so that all our thousand-plus neighbors will be informed about the service you offer us and the fact that should they require any home health care, Medical Personnel Pool is a phone-call away.

With warmest regards to all at M.P.P., I remain,
 Cordially, FRED RUBENS, Chairman for health matters,
SUMMIT TOWERS CONDOMINIUM

BOARD MEETING

It is suggested that unit owners contact a Board member concerning questions in their specific areas. (Names and phone numbers listed below). If unable to contact a Board member, leave a message in Condo office. Usual maintenance problems should be brought to the attention of the Manager in the Condo office.

LIFE SAFETY EQUIPMENT STATUS

The fire alarm repair company assures us that all testing and repairs of our life safety equipment will be completed by February 28, 1990 IF they are able to gain access to the 47 units that have not cooperated in submitting keys to this office. We ask those individuals who have not brought us their keys to cooperate for the benefit of all concerned. REMEMBER . . . "The life you save may be your own!"

Upon inspection of the systems, many problems were found: incorrect printed circuit boards; missing or disconnected speakers in apartment units and improper wiring of the system itself. The other delays were due to accessibility into a great many of the units, as keys had to be obtained and arrangements made with the unit owners for proper testing.

Upon completion, A Letter of Certification will be issued to the Summit Towers, which will be presented to the Hollywood Fire Department for final approval. We will keep you advised.

Peter Cancell, Manager

"A JEWISH WRITER"

By Helen Berkowitz

Sometimes one hears something and knows he will never forget the moment. Such was my experience Monday night.

As part of Jewish Book Week, Elie Wiesel was the guest speaker at Bailey Hall. To a full capacity audience, he poured out the poetry of his heart. It was particularly meaningful to me because this prominent author talked about his problems as a writer as if he were a novice.

"I'm an artist when I write. I am not a painter - a painter is always adding more strokes. I consider myself a sculptor who is constantly chipping away. Making something take shape with less material is difficult for me. When I chip away at conversations, or descriptions, or incidents or characters, I do not sleep nights thinking about the pieces I have allowed to fall away. Like the sculptor I have to be careful because once I've chipped away, the pieces cannot be used again".

"My first book was 890 pages. My subsequent books are approximately 200 pages - no longer. I have learned I must get my message across, not by pages, but by choice of words and characters".

"Believe me, I have many sleepless nights agonizing over the chipping away of my work; I hear the characters cry. They want to be in the story. But - like the sculptor, I must learn to shape and form my 'message'".

"I write what I know about, Judaism. I came from a traditional home. The holocaust robbed me of my loved ones, and my youth was non-existent. My mind will not, cannot, abandon these experiences. Thus I am not only an author, I am a Jewish author".

"I keep asking myself, 'How is it that despite thousands of years of persecution, torture, annihilation and genocide, we are the only people of antiquity which has survived'? All my books speak to some aspect of that puzzle".

Such was the writing lesson of a master, to stress the sensitivity and import of his message.

I felt he had "said it all". You could not help but feel that his caring about his fellow man, Jew or Christian alike, fills his heart and soul and has to speak out.

Man's inhumanity to man, stirs him, agitates him. Through his novels he speaks. He makes himself heard.

(Elie Wiesel delivered this December 4, 1989)

The modern housewife is one who knows what her husband's favorite dishes are - and the restaurants that serve them.

VIEW FROM THE TERRACE

We goofed. In our report of the annual Social Club party we noted that six guys came out in drag and did some South Seas dancing, twisting and twirling you know what. Roz Turkish, who staged the whole thing, reminded us that the guys were guys to begin with, and were just dressed as Polynesian warriors or something like that. Sorry, Roz. Where we were in the Pacific we fell in love with Palm trees. Or what was left of them.

This is Alex Chertoff's story. A nice looking grandmother sat by herself in Nancy's and Shelley's cafe, ready to enjoy her French toast. At that moment she was hunted down by three grandchildren (3, 5, and 7 years of age) who chorused, "C'mon, Grammah, give us some of your toast".

Willingly, very willingly, she spoonfed all three until the plate was clean. A guy sitting with Alex said to one of the kids as they passed his table: "How about treating your grandmother to some toast the next time, that would be nice, right"?

The oldest kid, 7, said "You're not nice. Go away".

The moral of this story is that some day this kid could be President of the United States.

Signs around:

At a nurse's station in a Hollywood hospital: A hypochondriac is anybody who can read a doctor's handwriting.

In an antiques store in Dania: English, French and Spanish spoken here. Cash understood.

In a bank in North Miami Beach. A large banner reads: "Borrow For Your Dreams". A gal on a teller's line says, "Terrific. Paying it back will be a nightmare".

Philosophies in one sentence:

The surest way to turn a woman's head is to tell her that she has a beautiful profile.

Laughter is the shortest distance between two people.

Writers are born, not paid.

A New York friend sent us a clipping from his esteemed newspaper's "in house" publication, written for and by its editorial staff. The clipping contained the text of a letter sent to the newspaper by a cancelling subscriber, who wrote: "My son has been in a mental hospital for two years and received your newspaper every day. Now that he is well he doesn't read it anymore".

We asked Observer readers for jokes, trivia, anything unusual. The response was far from overwhelming and what we received bore no signatures. Anyway, this is what was slipped under the editor's door.

Guy goes to a psychiatrist and says his wife thinks she's a piano. The doctor says, "Bring her in, bring her in". The guy replies, "Think I'm nuts? Do you know how much it costs to move a piano"?

BILL KADUSON

WE LOVE OUR NEIGHBORS!

Who, upon signing the last papers of your sales contract, hasn't harbored the secret anxious question, who will my neighbor be? You could, heaven forbid, live next to a sweet elderly couple who find themselves taking care of their eighteen year old grandson, who's a drummer in a Heavy Metal Rock Band and practices and practices and practices! Or perhaps across the hall lives a husband and wife who were the role models for "The War of the Roses" - I mean, noisy, Bud - .

I guess Mort and I lucked out when we bought on the 5th floor, South building.

Where else does marvelous piano music waft thru the halls - a Beethoven Sonata or a Chopin Waltz, done with expertise and perfection. It's no tape or CD disc, it's Leah Kaplan, diminutive only in stature, not in talent. Leah is a concert pianist, she plays to a rapt audience of one - her adoring Al. I do wish the walls of her apartment were a little thinner.

Across from us lives Phil Gleaves. Phil is one of a kind at the Summit. Who else has a neighbor who is young, handsome, dashing, English bred, and to top it all - a superb, acclaimed horse trainer.

Phil is in charge of 30 to 60 race horses, and believe me he has trained many winners (maybe one or two losers). Summers he is in New Jersey and Saratoga; winters at the tracks here. Phil and I have a thing going between us. I keep an eye on his apartment and in return he lets me use his freezer!

Beauty is in the 5th floor in the face and soul of Shirley Efrogmson. Her figure ain't bad either!!

Evelyn Kraut is the Corporate Chief of Brains on our floor. Since living here, she has received her doctorate and last year had her Bat Mitzvah. It was great. Active in Federation etc. But most of all, a really good neighbor. Many a day when Mort didn't feel well and I had to leave town, Evelyn would come by and check on Mort.

I am suspicious that Mort played sick at least three times in the evenings so Evelyn would stop by and hold his hand. She said she was checking his pulse!

And then there are the Congeniality Kids on the block. Barbara and Harry Taparek. That Barbara is some cook, and they have so many friends.

In our hall we have the pleasure of seeing three adorable grandchildren of Hajnal and Arthur Bechky. What caring and tried grandparents they are!

Ellen Gaber, always with a smile and a kind word.

And the Leckners - Canada's gift to us, but only for the season; we accept the charming gift with pleasure.

We have a new neighbor Sam Plessner. This man is a jewel. He is our Mr. Fix-It in residence.

There is a saying "you can take the country out of the boy" well, you can take the Scotts off the Fifth floor - but you'll never take the Fifth floor off the Scotts. We still miss you Harriet and Milton.

Each year Mort and I have a "floor party" for our neighbors. This year things are hectic - but as soon as everything quiets down, we'll put up a sign "Hey Fifth Floor-Let's Party"!

SMOKE DETECTORS SAVE LIVES

A small, inconspicuous piece of equipment might someday save your life.

Since a sprinkler system only responds to heat, a smoke detector is an "Early Warning System". Most serious injuries in a fire result from smoke inhalation.

Your condominium now has a supply of detectors on hand. All you have to do is call the office to arrange for installation. NO CHARGE. What are you waiting for?

MARTY BIERMAN SCORES BIG AT CURRENT EVENTS CLASS

A most informative evening was enjoyed by all who attended the "Israeli" seminar on Monday night, February 19th. Marty Bierman read some items about Israel printed recently in several hostile newspapers and spoke about his trip to Israel. He then invited a panel of four, Irving Schecter, Lilian Zasloff Olga Bluestein, and Marty's friend Eugene Stein who had visited Israel during the past few months to relate their experiences. Each reported his and her adventures in a most interesting manner including his opinion on how to travel in Israel.

It was very heartwarming to see and hear the glow in the faces and words of the panelists. It was as though each had brought back a piece of the antiquity and pride that is Israel.

The last part of the session was conducted by Rabbi Ruben Katz who brought into sharp focus the financial burden on Israel and all Jews to "ransom" the Russian Jews. All who attended this session were truly rewarded with a better insight as to the safety of travelling in Israel despite the threat of terrorists.

It is most gratifying to see more and more people attending the Current Events Class. Every seat was occupied; more chairs will be added at the next session.

Irving L. Rosenkranz

SOUTH AFRICA TODAY!

Chris Barnard put South Africa on the map when he first performed a heart transplant. Now Nelson Mandela has brought South Africa into sharp focus once more.

Most South Africans who left their homeland did so because they felt they could not guarantee their children a lifestyle and security. The quality of their life consisted of being able to immerse themselves in diversified cultural and social activities from an early age because the availability of household staff freed them from domestic chores. Many middle class families entertained at home, lavishly by any standards, at least once a week, with staff doing most of the preparations and cleaning up. Food was inexpensive. There are more private swimming pools per capita (of whites) in South Africa than any other country. Tennis courts are widely used and found also in other than the affluent areas. Motor cars are presented to graduating students much the same as here. Theatre, Opera, Ballet and Music were enjoyed by white South Africans. Sport has always played a large part in the lives of South Africans. Many sports were compulsory at school. Educational standards were high and the Universities were of international status in most departments. The medical schools were outstanding, many prominent doctors all over the world graduated from a South African medical school.

The smallest houses had lovely gardens, and the bigger homes on large estates had rolling lawns much the same as one sees in the South here. Laughter filled the air and graceful living was an accepted way of life. I remember walking around the streets of a neighborhood where I lived and admiring the beautiful homes and gardens. All that was ten to fifteen years ago.

What's left? Those streets are still there, but the houses have 8 ft. walls around them with coils of military type, razor edged barbed wire on top. Electronic gates protect the homes and no one strolls in the streets any more.

Education is not as good as it was and the standards for passing in medical school have been lowered. The finest doctors have left the country and teaching hospitals are closing down. Food has become expensive and domestic help, while readily available is expensive due to the increases in food prices and transport.

The theatre no longer produces plays of the same calibre and is not as well patronized as it used to be. Cars can only get insurance if they have their registration numbers etched into all windows, with an alarm that also immobilizes the engine. The rate of car theft is the highest in the world.

Entry into shopping malls is preceded by a security check similar to entering an airport here. Sidewalks are littered and public parks and botanical gardens have signs warning of the dangers of strolling through them. Traffic is horrendous and made worse by tens of thousands of vans being used as taxis by the black population. Statistics show these vans as causing the majority of accidents. They stop when and where they wish and seldom signal.

Smiling faces are gone, relaxing and living graciously is a thing of the past. White South Africans have lost their quality lives. Many South Africans anxiously asked me last month if I could see the changes in the country. My answer was that I could certainly see changes for the Whites.

But what about the Black people? In the next issue of the Observer I will write about Black South Africa.

CHALK UP ANOTHER WINNER FOR THE YIDDISH CLASS

At the risk of sounding repetitious, the Yiddish Class, which meets every Tuesday morning at 10:30 A.M. in the third floor lounge, South building spent a most enjoyable morning watching a Yiddish movie, "Raisins and Almonds", basically clips of Jewish movies produced prior to 1940. Cups of raisins and almonds instead of pop corn, were served - through the efforts of Gail Blumenthal and Helen Berkowitz.

Some of the clips brought tears to the eyes and sighs from the heart to many who watched and heard the voices of many great yiddish stars such as Molly Picon, and Moishe Oysher, who starred in the Jewish version of the Jazz Singer long before Al Jolson in the first "Talking Picture". The narrator's comments added greatly to the program.

More than 350 Jewish moving pictures were made before the producers ceased making them due to lack of patronage. In the lighter vein, as Al Jolson would have said, "You ain't seen nothin' " until you have seen a Yiddish Western. No, the hero did not wear a king size yarmulka, he wore the traditional white cowboy hat and the villain wore the somber black cowboy hat. All the characters spoke a flawless Yiddish except the stunt men who must have been non-Jews. There were not too many Jewish stunt men around in those days. The saloon "brawl" scene was a classic. The actors swore in Yiddish as chairs were broken over their heads and barroom tables splintered during the battle royal.

As I gazed around the room I saw many a smile as Molly Picon sang her famous "Yiddle with her Fiddle" bringing back memories of the golden Second Avenue Theater days. Their eyes seemed to say, "Where did the years go"? Nostalgia reigned supreme that morning.

All are welcome to attend the Yiddish Class every Tuesday at 10:30 A.M. You will never know what a treat is in store for you unless you attend. You will probably be surprised how much Yiddish you do understand.

Thanks to Evelyn Kraut for providing us with the film and thanks to Paul Finkelstein for "setting us up".

10 COMMANDMENTS FOR CONDOMINIUM RESIDENTS

1. SPEAK TO PEOPLE. There's nothing as cheerful as a word of greeting.
2. SMILE AT PEOPLE. It takes 66 muscles to frown, only 16 to smile.
3. CALL PEOPLE BY NAME. The sweetest music to anyone's ears is the sound of his own name.
4. BE FRIENDLY AND HELPFUL. If you would have friends, be friendly.
5. BE SINCERELY CORDIAL. Speak and act as if it gives you genuine pleasure.
6. BE CONSIDERATE OF THE FEELINGS OF OTHERS. No one likes to be rebuffed.
7. BE THOUGHTFUL OF THE OPINION OF OTHERS. There are three sides to a controversy - yours, the other person's and the right side.
8. BE GENUINELY INTERESTED IN PEOPLE. You can like everyone if you try.
9. BE GENEROUS WITH PRAISE, CAUTIOUS WITH CRITICISM. Praise lifts, criticism lowers.
10. BE ALERT TO RENDER SERVICE. About all that counts in life is what we do for others.

A RUSSIAN SAYING

We had just completed our group tour of the Lenin Museum inside the Kremlin. Our guide, a well-groomed smartly attired woman of fifty-something, opened the floor for questions.

Someone at the rear asked, "What do your people think of Raiza Gorbachev"? "We have a saying in Russia", she answered, "The man of the family is the head; the woman is the neck, and where the neck turns, the head must follow."

EXERCISE FOR SENIORS VITAL TO GOOD HEALTH

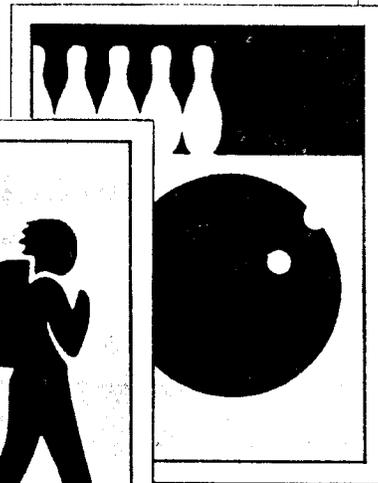

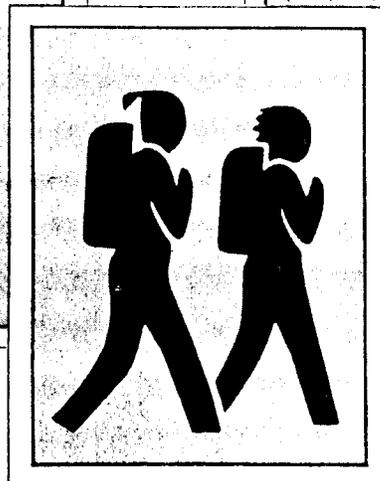

Exercise is one of the key contributors to the length and quality of life. While helping to maintain a mobile lifestyle and reducing mental fatigue, exercise also can make a person look, feel and act younger. It's not too late for you to add a little exercise to your life, even though you may feel you're not young enough

Back Leg Swings (firm the buttocks and strengthen the lower back)

Place feet together and stand erect behind a chair. Place hands on the chair for support and lift one leg back and up as far as possible, keeping your knee straight. Return to starting position and do the same with the other leg. Repeat 10 times.

Finger Squeezes (strengthen the hands)

Extend arms in front at shoulder height, palms down and squeeze fingers slowly, then release. Repeat five times. Then turn palms up, squeeze fingers, and release. Repeat five times. Extend arms in front, shake fingers, and lower arms. Repeat five times.

anymore. There are some simple exercises that can be done by most people. (Before you try this or any exercise program, check with your doctor.)

Leg Extensions (tone upper leg muscles)

Sit upright, lift right leg off the floor and extend it fully. Then lower it very slowly. Do the same with the left leg. Repeat about 12 times for each leg.

Shoulder Shrugs (relax muscles at the back of the neck and tone shoulders)

Lift shoulders as far as possible, then relax them. Repeat 10 times.

Shoulder Touching (increase shoulder and elbow flexibility; tone upper arms)

Touch shoulders with your hands, extend arms straight out with fists closed, and bring arms back to the starting position. Repeat 12 times.

When combined with a schedule of brisk walking, these exercises can prove beneficial, if done on a regular basis. ▲

SOCIAL CLUB NEWS

WITH LOVE AND HISSES FROM YVONNE MORTON

The new Social Club heralded the year with a show, "3 Rooms No Bath". Some liked it, some didn't. But everyone agrees it was nice to have a new venture and hopefully this is the start of some varied entertainment.

The Valentine party was a success. Some people were unable to gain admission due to a limited number of tickets being available. Our Social Hall dictates the number of people who can attend, so in future remember to buy your tickets early! Pearl Milestone is to be congratulated on the wonderful decorating job she did for the Valentine Party and Ettie Shragie got a team of women involved. Thanks to both of you and the many helpers at the party!

To those unable to purchase tickets for the Valentine party, apologies from the Social Club and we hope to see you first in line next year! A wonderful evening from all accounts.

Once a month a meeting will be held for all Club members, please attend, your opinions and advice are welcome. Desperately needed are volunteers, not on the basis of being available for every party, but on the basis of getting involved even if it is for one time only.

A Barbecue is being planned for March Twenty Fifth, please join us on the pool deck. Jolly Jack the saxophonist will be there.

In the planning stage is the St. Patrick's Day Party being chaired by George McClancy and the Yiddish Club are having their Purim Party March 13th.

After Pesach we hope enough snowbirds are still here to attend the planned "Farewell to Snowbirds".

The Social Club wants everyone involved--play your part, even if it is only once. It's fun.

So many people called Paul Finkelstein to voice their appreciation of the Valentine's Day Party that we're hoping for a similar number of callers offering to help with future events.

Happy to report that Morton Cole is recuperating nicely from his recent aneurysm surgery.

AN OPEN LETTER TO A VANDAL

Dear Friend: Seek professional help as soon as possible because you are a very sick person! Scratching freshly painted walls and other acts of vandalism is an indication of a very sick venomous mind. The newspapers often print items of random shootings in public areas and schoolyards by people seeking revenge for one reason or another. Take heed! Don't say you weren't warned. You will avoid lots of grief and sorrow when you will be caught in a future act of vandalism. By the way, you will pay your share of the repairs to the damage you caused so what you are doing in essence is "cutting off your nose to spite your face".

To all Summit residents; this is your home, so please inform Security if you see anyone in an act of vandalism. We will prosecute any person caught vandalizing our buildings to the full extent of the law.
